

FS2's Snack-time Stories at Thingwall

All the teachers at Thingwall are missing lots about school, but one thing we really are missing is our daily snack-time when we get to drink milk, eat a biscuit and read a story together. So, we've been trying to think about how we can still do this. We have a plan!

The staff have been busy reading and recording their favourite stories so that, if you wish, you could recreate snack-time at home. This week, we're going to try to provide daily audio files for you to download and listen to with your child if you would like to.

If you can, get your milk, get comfy and just enjoy listening together. You could also encourage your child to talk about the story afterwards, or even draw a picture about what they have listened to, or perhaps create your own stories. It's entirely optional-we just want it to be an enjoyable task for the children and hopefully remind them of their usual Thingwall routines.

Here are the first five download links-one for each day. They are MP3 files, you should be able to just click on each link and it should open. (You might need to allow Google Music/other provider on your mobile or laptop to play the file.) If you have any problems accessing any links, please send an email to the school office (for the attention of Mr Bettridge and we will try to sort this for you.)

For this week, you're going to be listening to a variety of different stories that myself and Mrs Sparke have recorded for you-they are some of our favourites.

I hope you enjoy them.
